

Dr Barnado (Answers)

1. Barnado refused paid work as he felt his first duty was to the children.
2. In 1873 Barnado got married.
3. We are told his wife was a charming young woman who shared his interests.
4. The little girl who had no home was about 11 years old.
5. She knocked at Barnado's Stepney home to ask for help.
6. Dr Barnado and his wife decided to open a home for girls.
7. The homes were known as the Ilford Village Homes.
8. The children who came to these homes were able to live with a mother to care for them and in a loving family.
9. In 1878 Barnado started to offer free medical services.
10. This new work was carried on in the East End of London.