

William Morris & the Motor Car (Answers)

1. William Morris' workshop was in Oxford.
2. He made bicycles and then motor cycles in the workshop in Oxford.
3. He fitted petrol engines to the bicycles.
4. Henry Ford's workshop was in Detroit USA.
5. Henry Ford was building motor cars in Detroit.
6. Morris copied Ford by attempting to make cheaper motor cars.
7. People had to pay £165 for a motor car made by William Morris.
8. The bull-nose radiator was the part of Morris' car that became well known.
9. Two people could travel in the first Morris car.
10. He needed to move to a new building in order to keep up with the orders that were coming in.