

These are only suggested answers - there are many others.

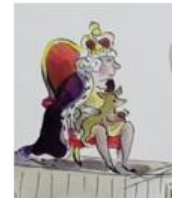

The orangutan was swinging on the chandelier until he dived into the cake.

The butler wheeled in the tea trolley before slurping tea from the pot.

The Queen was sitting on her throne while having her portrait painted.

The Queen thought the president was annoying because he wanted fries with everything.

The Queen's maid screamed when she found the orangutan in the bed.

The bearskin guards could not do a thing because the Queen was free.

The Queen waved from the bus as she escaped from the palace.

This section of the text has a subordinating conjunction in it.
Can you spot it?