

I read and answer

The Prince and the Monster

As the ship went by, the monster came up out of the sea. He was the biggest monster the prince had seen. The prince left the ship, and went onto the rocks by the sea. The monster saw the prince, and came on the rocks to kill him.

All day long the fight went on, and all the next day, and the next. But in the end the prince killed the monster. The prince lay on the rocks. The fight had gone on for three days, and he could not get up.

The sailors went to the rocks for the prince. They took him back to the ship. Then they left the monster there on the rocks, and went back to the princess.

from The Princess Who Wanted the Moon by S. K. McCullagh