

Going Deeper

Without being able to see the measurements of the liquid in the containers, how could you explain to someone that you knew which had the largest volume of liquid in?