

Wednesday

focus group

—

Why might you be thinking in this situation?

Remember you are told to move to England from Jamaica.

Today we are going to write the opening of our diary entry.

You will need to look back at your notes of the Windrush and the Show not Tell vocabulary to help you.

Negative emotions

heart is still racing

tears streaming down
my face

furious

livid

raging

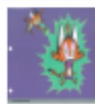

Neutral emotions

jaw dropped

gazed at Dad without really seeing him

speechless

stunned

Positive emotions

jumped up and down
with joy

heart skipped a beat

overjoyed

ecstatic

Started on Wednesday 1st February 2022

Write a diary entry from Benjamin's perspective.

Use Standard English in my writing.

Show some use of the perfect present tense.

2nd Feb 1948

Dear diary,

I am still in shock. Today has been one of the WORST days of my life ever! My father has told me the devastating news that we must move to England. Questions are racing through my mind at million miles an hour: Why now? Why us? Why me? I feel sick just thinking about it. As I sit here scibbling down my thoughts, my hands shake in anger.

Play the bingo game for perfect present tense